Three as She Lay Sleeping

by Gary Justis

As I watched her sleep, I saw gentle frost and sun on crystal.

> Her hair, impish glances and fragrance above shaded woods. Her warm flesh, in dark hollows, under tree falls; her touch, like a spider's clinging, silken thread…

Available online at «http://fictionaut.com/stories/gary-justis/three-as-she-lay-sleeping»
Copyright © 2010 Gary Justis. All rights reserved.