Untitled

by Jason McCormick

I had the day off so I decided to do some fishing, browsing for new writers at the fish tanks, book shelves filled with American Literature and I began near Zelazny, trolling backwards with an eye out, hunting, hoping to find a buried treasure in an unsung sea of books at a college library.

Available online at «http://fictionaut.com/stories/jason-mccormick/untitled»
Copyright © 2014 Jason McCormick. All rights reserved.