

If only one more thing

by Ann Bogle

If I could say only one thing more to Tony who died a month ago, there is one thing I could find to say and that is, "Since you died, I have realized that we created years and years of memories together." Everything else can wait or we said it.

