Move and Pause

by Nonnie Augustine

On a Saturday I flew
from murky air.

My wings grown weak,
I stole away
from plundered nest,
casual stings,
and skillful barbs.

In family's fold, I perch.

Available online at «http://fictionaut.com/stories/nonnie-augustine/move-and-pause»
Copyright © 2014 Nonnie Augustine. All rights reserved.