Crash

by Steven Gowin

My god. It never ends
First the wreck of things
Beads of glass in a purse
Appearing at random

Later, maybe already
The wreck of moments, flashes
A déjà vu of violent ruin
Broken film spliced poorly

Choice is victim but survivor
And continuance demands order
Everything in its place
Such an odd and horrible gift

Available online at «http://fictionaut.com/stories/steven-gowin/crash»
Copyright © 2016 Steven Gowin. All rights reserved.