rewind...

by Veronica Marie Lewis-Shaw

words...
sounds...
bits and chops...
swirling ‘round my brain...
just tryin' to make some sense...
sleep eludes...
dawn intrudes...

you're in my heart...
you're in my head...
your scent and sight color my world...
i'm drowning in your love...
don't throw me out a line...
floating...
drifting...
colors shifting...
my heart is keeping time...

i'll kiss away your fears...
and drink up all your pain...
don't give up...
we're almost there...
no white flags...
gonna make this work...

don't make me learn that game…

is the joy something we only borrow…?
no more fears…
just gotta do it…
take my hand…
you have my heart…

evening shades…

if i close my eyes…
will it all end tomorrow?
