

So freaking tired

by Deborah Oster Pannell

It seems like each night I collapse into bed, more tired than the day before.

tonight I feel brain dead.

I will try to get an early night's sleep and get up early in the am again to complete more unfinished things from today.

So much to do.

So much to complete.

So many dreams I need to visit, though, in between.

so I can remember why I even do these things in the first place...
