Cleft-Split Rock

by Ed Higgins

1. Walking here with you on these narrow strands of clean air & imagination only.

- 2. Delight entering despite sorrows that already call us away.
- 3. Eased by this rising moon, the tide's darkening stain surges

onto wet
waiting sand
thrust inward
toward the yielding reluctant shore.

4. Tentative, at first, this receding inflowing discourse of wave and cleft-split rock:

5. The ambiguous edge barely perceptible now against the sea's widening urge.

The surf out there like a pulse quickened to the heart.