Regarding Bill Yarrow's Assertion that Herrick Was a Voyeur (Poor Julia: Violated, but Immortal)

by Gary Hardaway

One could say we're all voyeurs, always at least a little bit apart—the observation, at the end, more important than the being there—seeing at safe enough distance to report the seen being everything.