Stomping the Big Ozarka Bottle Flat

by Gary Hardaway

Recycling makes me think of bio-mass and critical mass and mass extinctions as my imaginary dolphin friend chokes on the plastic rings of a six pack.

I dream of benzene rings and polymer shrouds and endless coal fires under earth.

Periclean Greeks had no plastics just littered the world with tragedies.