

maybe, in winter

by Kitty Boots

if the sky falls
and clouds rain white dust
the cove freezes over

I will wrap up in quilts that still smell of summer sun curl into myself

and listen to the cries of unfamiliar birds

