

Facing the Music

by Neil McCarthy

The spirit bottles line the top of the bar like prisoners in a death camp;

a shot here, a shot there — their names forgotten by morning.

