

Coffee Alone

by XXXX

And pity us, this generation of sighing:
Our coffee is expensive, and we must speak to one another through a membrane of insincerity: Society is our body bag.
So cry for me. I am ready to die today,
have been ready this morning,
will be ready tonight, tomorrow,
ready even after I am already dead:
Ready now more than ever.

