

To a Young Atheist & Intellectual with Dior Glasses

by XXXX

You have such a complicated mind for refusing to believe in God just like any damned liberal whose fingerprints crowd the faces of a thousand dollar bills being passed around your great nation for hotdogs, for mobile phones, for coffee, for burgers, for mattresses, for apartments, for cocaine, for dog food, for organic this and organic that.
You must be so unique, like everyone else,
a solitary snowflake during the snowstorm of Reason.
Your talk makes me believe in the nonexistence of God for if he too had to listen to you he would walk out of existence as one would a cliff and the Death of God should instead be called his Relief.