

The New World

by A. Pseudonym

We came, and
We did not see
And so we conquered.

Blind and hungry
Ill-prepared and jealous
Mad with barren chill
And uncertain in our armor,

We breached the difference.

