

WRECKED

by Adam Sifre

There are always reasons,
and I always understand.
Because in this world, someone always breaks,
and someone always does the breaking,
If there's a difference, I don't see it.

There's an ebb and flow to movie relationships,
and through it all, love returns.
In the movies.

In life, I've found it to be a vortex.
A whirlpool,
where two bodies try to hold on for as long as they can,
until one decides to let go.

There are always reasons,
and I always understand,.

The two great lies in my life.

