No.

by Amanda Proscia

I feel

your warmth on me; you are warmer than usual, perhaps it's your adrenaline. I pray for it to be over. I lost my faith that night. Tears running down my face; sweating more than I ever have before. My arms feel paralyzed as you hold them down. I try to get up but you prove your strength.

I thought I said no.