

He Holds an Expired Visa and a Monday Grudge

by Bill Yarrow

What recalcitrance of personality occludes the possibility of love?
I see so many knitted in demons.
Somehow the world survives, just barely.
The brides are smiling, but for how long?

