My Father Said, "I Miss the Game."

by Carl Santoro

But I was dreaming. Of course he misses it, he has been dead 13 years.

I guess he meant the game of life that we are all playing all the time.

Some choose to play by the rules others have their way with us.

It IS a game after all.

It made me want to play harder.

Enjoy the players and the playground.