Jolly Old Nick (Black As Hell)

by C.D. Reimer

Jolly Old Nick was black as hell, climbing through all those dirty chimneys. His old lady calls the cops because he forgot his key.

Jolly Old Nick was black as hell, sitting with all those smelly drunkards. Still waiting for his phone call, he held his nose from the smell.

Jolly Old Nick was black as hell, washing with all those nude prisoners. With scrubs of soap and water, angry old white man appears.

Jolly Old Nick, now white as hell, walking with all those falsely accused. His old lady picks him up, nags him about being black.
