

(From an Awakened Sleep)

by Charlotte Hamrick

pluck me from the charred grate from the rusty barbed wire bit by dried up bit

gather the particles
the blackened scale
and crust

cradle it in your hands like stolen moon dust
relics of a lost life

then blow

