

Cradle

by Chelsea Wood

Fingers fan like birds' wings
 cradling the volume,
 head hanging low
 and lips moving silently.
There is a reverence
 in his body's pose; standing in the darkened stacks among the books and ghosts.

