

Cradle

by Chelsea Wood

Fingers fan like birds' wings cradling the volume,
    head hanging low
    and lips moving silently.
There is a reverence
in his body's pose; standing in the darkened stacks among the books and ghosts.

