5 Narratives From The Field Museum (Naturally)

1. The American wife asked her French husband why it took him 50 words to ask which pass they would need. He said, "Because it does," and they argued more, each in their own words. 2. The child said he was sad. His father asked him why. 3. It took one word. 4. The girl standing beside the ticket counter asked them if they needed any help. "The dinosaurs," the child said. "I want to see the dinosaurs." 5. The girl did a little shrug; she didn't really work there.
