

Right Now

by Darryl Price

Something magical is happening. The world goes on.
Love is the answer. Something tragic is starting to unfold. The world goes on. Love is the answer. It really is true, the magic is inside you because it is you, or it isn't. What are you making happen? The tragedy is in the terrible marching shadows thrown carelessly across every moon shining in every window.

The world goes on. Love is the answer.
The choice is obvious as all get out.
Every grain of sand is alive with atoms.
Each atom is alive with electrons and protons.
Every tree has a tree spirit. Every animal is an animal being. The world goes on.
Love is the answer. What are you putting all your trust to? What are you making in the basement, something to share? Everyone is waiting to see what you'll come up with.

Fear or hope? Something to refill an empty hole? Love or hate? Something tender or hideous?
Something magnetic is happening here. The world goes on. Love is the answer. What have you gotten us all into? Light or darkness? Someone's ringing a song. Someone is singing a bell.

Don't waste time. Open up your heart. The world goes on. Love is the answer. What were you thinking? We must carry on forever.
Something like compassion is always needed for another push in the right direction forward. Every creature, every man and woman and child, is depending on us, on you now. The world goes on. Take the chance. Love is the answer.

