

Two Different Worlds

by David James

*The boy was sure of something,
She was just the one.*

*The girl was sure of nothing,
Her life had just begun.*

*For him, he'd found his partner,
There was never any doubt.
For her, he was fine for now,
But there was more to learn about.*

*He thought it was a perfect start,
Something bound to surely grow.
She thought it may be but a pause,
But had no words to tell him so.*

