

Glance

by David Russo

I saw a former lover today, by complete accident. We met eyes for a moment and exchanged perfunctory grins when her beau, a tall gentlemen looked away.

He and I could never be friends.

