The poet. Pt. 3

by Deborah Oster Pannell

I think I remember now why people write poetry. It's for the times when the thoughts are coming so fast and furious punch you in the face jet pack jelly brain instant inject instant noodles that regular sentences just won't do.