

running tap

by Erica Hoskins Mullenix

From the nebula, she pulled anecdotes of wedding rings dropped down sink drains and all kinds of frantic efforts to retrieve them. She felt none of that urgency as she continued scrubbing her face with a tube of ground peach pits bought the week before from the dollar store.

