

Surprise

by Estelle Bruno

she was 12 years old sat at her desk, a bashful girl, who wished she could have gotten sick this day, not to be here, to face being embarrassed this valentine day it was the day the boys would pick the girl he liked best and give his card to the teacher to deliver at the end of class, guess he was bashful also when class was ended, the girl was anxious to run out of the room, but she had to wait till the bell rang.
the teacher walked up and down each of the aisles, dropping the cards whose names were on them, onto the desks.
when she got near to the shy girl's desk, the girl put her head down, pretending to gather up her books when suddenly the teacher dropped a card on her desk - her face reddened, she didn't know what to do, picked it up nervously, didn't know who it was from, didn't matter who it was from she finally felt she was a part of that class.

