

Christmas Potluck

by Fred Osuna

"I see how little kids might find you creepy," she says between red velvet bites, referencing his age and name-checking Santa Claus. Meanwhile, a man sits at the end of their table, laughing at someone's corny joke, with a crumb of cheese dangling from his white beard.

