

All the Broken People

by Gary Hardaway

Each personality has its flaw.
This one is too compliant,
that one, too coercive;

this one too assertive,
that one passive to a point of pure inertia. We all fall short and fail.

Oh, Father, kill us now before we disappoint again.

