

Cairn

by Gary Hardaway

Under shadows
of towering poems,
each new one is audacity.
Plenty mark the hills
and prairies well

already. Your cairns are litter in the streets they line and they: landmarks tourists like yourself photograph in awe.

