

Losses

by Gary Hardaway

Memory dissipates in time.
Each day, I lose more words-nouns and verbs- but especially proper names. People and places disappear with but small traces that torment and admonish me.

I lose my mind in tiny ways.
I lose my personal histories word by misplaced word.

