Mortality

by Gary Hardaway

The list of things to live for shortens with age. The list of regrets lengthens. A life is your space and time and you recognize-- its boundary approaches faster and faster. All you might have done expands beyond imagination and into that scope and breadth you stare, bewildered by the pastness of the past.

Available online at «http://fictionaut.com/stories/gary-hardaway/mortality» Copyright © 2018 Gary Hardaway. All rights reserved.