

Thanksgiving

by Gary Hardaway

The universe is not extraordinary

Despite the astro-cummulus nebulae,
The hot, bright, massive stars,
The black, black, vampiric holes,
And curving space enough to hold
A billion sentient histories,

Unless we see it, probe it,
Name it, star by star, and feel
This awful, tenuous gratitude.

