Words of Departure

by Jackie Parslow

A certain butterfly is already on the wing

They needn't say I was a king, nor drop with me a shining ring, my quoir shall have its day and sing, dancing, laughter, light it bring, not a dark or shameful thing, over and over, a six foot sink Champagne, my friends shall drink, Not a fuss, not a stink, The eulogy, deep, will make one think, Grandmother, sat in back, will wink
