Chicken Human

by Jerry Ratch

I was in a Chinese restaurant trying to read the menu when I realized Hunan was only 1 letter off of Human

I thought it read Chicken Human This was just in a dream, so I ordered it It was delicious, but kind of salty

Then someone at another table said Boy, we're all really just a bunch of salted nuts, aren't we?

I actually found myself nodding my big human head in agreement and found myself scratching under my feathers when I realized I had wings

Went on realizing even more about myself Started a whole new class in self realization I looked around at the others in my situation

We were perched in boxes giving birth to ourselves saying What? Wha...a...at? Wha...a...at?