

Hot Weather

by Jerry Ratch

I would like to invite the public to an open-air, environmental art piece called Hot Weather.
The exhibition will take place this summer. It will not begin until the temperature reaches 90 degrees.
This demonstration is available free of charge to the public.

Keep an eye out for Hot Weather.* * *

* * * This demonstration is an on-going permanent traveling exhibition taking place somewhere across the world at all times. It is a never-ending installation. And remember, it is free of charge. Welcome to Hot Weather.
