

The Writing On the Wall Has Been Covered by Graffiti

by Jerry Ratch

The graffiti has grown so large
It has covered everything we know and love
It has covered the windows, shutting out the light
And it's all about leaving your mark

The ones who are living outside your walls
Have grown worried about leaving their mark
And the size of the graffiti has grown so large
It's gotten into the sky

Where they're spraying graffiti in drive-by airplanes
Standing dangerously on the wingtips
With their fire-extinguisher sprayers
And they put their mark on the clouds passing by
