Things an Old Person Would Say

by Jerry Ratch

Obituaries aren't as much fun as they used to be.

I got a real fright when they said: Make way for the gravy train.

I can't eat ice cream anymore, either.

I'm finished with chopsticks. I'm going for the forks.

But

"That part of life I forgot to live?"

That's just not found in the things-an-old-person-would-say dictionary.
