Daily Living

by Jill Chan

I've been living
this day in many.
But always one
at a time.
When I plan,
it is with an eye
to disappointment.
To be graceful
in some things
is a happy encouragement.
When we are given
eternity, as a night
is eternal,
the walls open
into the vast opportunity.
When we are taken
from our disenchantments,
we may fall,
but we do it
with strangeness,
without night.

Available online at «http://fictionaut.com/stories/jill-chan/daily-living» Copyright © 2017 Jill Chan. All rights reserved.