

Mirage

by Judith A. Lawrence

in looking in the mirror what I sometimes see is the old once new me
flashing intermittently in the glint and sparkle of fond memory
so vivid
that when I see
my reflection
the new now old me
is blurred

