

Hubris, Now Hollowed

by Julie Leung

We laughed like lords and lunatics
Our schematics stretched before us

Conquerors mighty
I thought it all would be possible
When we walked in stride
Down imagined streets of our making

We proclaimed ourselves endless

In this ravaging decline
Our empire gutted
I think on my sins
Of hubris
Now hollowed

