Hubris, Now Hollowed

by Julie Leung

We laughed like lords and lunatics Our schematics stretched before us

Conquerors mighty
I thought it all would be possible
When we walked in stride
Down imagined streets of our making

We proclaimed ourselves endless

In this ravaging decline Our empire gutted I think on my sins Of hubris Now hollowed