

Moment of Creation

by Kevin Myrick

They held hands walking to the clinic and Terry remarked how much he loved Spring air.

“I think this is what the moment of creation smelled like,” he said.

Terry held onto the glass door and waited. Before he knew what happened, Sheila ran out of his life forever with their baby in her belly.

