

Physicist in love

by Kio Stark

Cal watched Rachel's graceful back as she stood centered in the window grid lining her studio. Hands propped on either side of her, where windowsill bisected wall, a pair of oblique angles. He saw symmetry, exquisite geometry, body and built world in harmony. Then, she leaned slightly into her hip and the symmetry broke.

