

Things I Have Done Instead of Celebrating Chocolate-Egg Day

by Kirsty Logan

Swithered over classing stray cats as a horde or a troupe Cooked mini vol-au-vents for my feminism book group Lay on the couch after they left so my thoughts could regroup Read that bit in Alice about the mock turtle soup Binned three house plants after months of ignoring their droop Wrote the first end-rhymed poem I've ever attempted, then remembered why I hate end-rhymes, then wondered to what other levels this month of frantic poems will make me Stoop.

