

Ways of Making Love

by Kirsty Logan

slowly. softly. secretly. with your eyes open. with your fists taut. with one or two or five or fifty other thoughts in your head besides her or him or them or yourself, your own skin wet hard & pressure, & pleasure, & the building of the straining of the undoing of falsehoods. the construction of a self.
the honesty of bodies & the lies hidden under skin. quickly. quietly. thinking of needles. thinking of moonlit fields & turning tides & that little cap of snow on the hills. swell of breast & hip nestled in your palm, joints against hardwood bedframes, sigh of spring, to knock out your breath & replace it with sweetssharp endings.
press it to the arch of your mouth.
kiss.

