Farm

by Kitty Boots

the Lewis brothers planted winter wheat last year their fields look barren in the summer sun golden stubble no corn or soybeans untilled, weedy, left to rest nourishment when they plow in the fall and turn all the good things under a bachelor and a widower they grow again